Premier Mounts Awarded Patent for Griplate™

The anti-slip mechanism securely supports a flat-panel display to its mounting bracket

ANAHEIM, CALIF. (November 17, 2011) – Premier Mounts (www.mounts.com), a leading manufacturer of mounts, carts & stands, and accessories, has been awarded a patent for the Griplate™, a specially designed metal plate that maintains the desired position of a flat-panel display by registering the mounting screw with the mounting bracket.

The Griplate™ (US Patent number 8,035,757 B2) is an anti-slip plate with protrusions that align with holes on the mounting bracket. Once the plate and bracket have been installed in the desired position, a screw secures the plate, bracket and device together. The flat-panel is held in place by the engagement holes on the bracket and protrusions on the Griplate™, without having to excessively tighten the screw.

“The Griplate™ is a helpful mounting tool that ensures a flat-panel will remain in its desired position once it is installed, with no slipping over time,” said Mike Bouissiere, Engineering Design Manager at Premier Mounts. “It is just one of many features that sets our mounts apart.”

Mounts that feature the Griplate™ include: CTM Series, PCM Series, RTM Series, ECM Series, RFM, GB-MS1, GB-MS2, AM300 and AM175.
